8 March 1951

Dear Mr. Finch:

Before leaving on an extended trip, General Smith asked me to follow up his letter to you of 13 January advising that [redacted] was being processed for employment with the Central Intelligence Agency. We now find, with regret, that the position for which he is being considered has been abolished as a result of recent functional and organizational changes.

We will endeavor to find a suitable place for him in the new structure. However, the Director wanted you and [redacted] to be advised of this change in order that he could consider other opportunities. The outlook now is not too promising for immediate placement.

Sincerely,

[redacted]

[redacted]

Lt. Colonel, USA
Assistant to the Director
